

One crisp winter morning, Matilda put on her yellow gumboots and polka dot raincoat.

Her tummy rumbled.

She ran downstairs to meet her mum, who had prepared a pile of delicious blueberry pancakes.

After breakfast, they headed towards the nearby park.
It was Matilda's favourite part of her 'mummy day' as she could crunch the leaves that had fallen off the trees on their way there.

She found a big muddy puddle and used her gumboots to SPLISH, SPLASH, SPLOSH in it.

While in the park, Matilda climbed the monkey bars, whizzed down the slide and clambered over the obstacle course.

Matilda also pretended to be a pirate sailing through the ocean, and she laughed until she cried when her mum played the lava monster.

