

Indy and the Fairy Dust Farts

Written by Sharon Sayers-Kiely

Illustrated by Ella Rousseau

Indy's story takes her on a journey from the lonely streets to an animal shelter and into foster care before finally finding a family to call her own.

Feeling content and loved in her new home Indy wonders at the strange noises that rumble around in her tummy and cause her bottom to toot, whistle,

shriek

and roar!

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Born in London before migrating to one of the beautiful seaside suburbs along the Mornington Peninsula, this is Sharon's second children's picture book to be published. Following on with another story based on one of her twenty four foster dogs – Sharon's spare time generally involves caring for the young and old dogs that take up her busy life.

A CONVERSATION WITH THE AUTHOR

WHAT WAS YOUR INSPIRATION FOR INDY AND THE FAIRY DUST FARTS?

My inspiration for this book, as well as my first published book Gracie and the Stinky Green Poo comes from the dogs that I fostered. I have plans for several books in the future based around my dogs and my foster dogs.

WHAT HAS YOUR JOURNEY WITH WRITING BEEN LIKE?

I usually write only when I get spare time amongst my day, but I gain a lot of inspiration from my everyday life. I'm always inspired by true life. For me, literary success means simply having a published book for myself. Having the physical book based around the stories that I tell of the dogs in my life is what I enjoy the most about this process.

I only realised I wanted to write about five years ago, but I have enjoyed it ever since and have plans for much more going forward.
