Gracie's story takes her from the street to the animal shelter and finally a place to call home. Feeling loved and growing strong, Gracie goes on the hunt to find out what is the stinky, sweet, heavenly smell hiding in the backyard that delights her doggy senses to the bone...

"The conjuring of fun with poop is a delight for children to share... Well done on writing a cute story about a frail elderly rescue dog..."

Della, Indie Book reviewer

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Born in London before migrating to the beautiful Mornington Peninsula, this is the first of Sharon's published books.

Fostering twenty four frail, elderly dogs over the course of eight years, while working voluntarily alongside other passionate rescue foster carers, Sharon's writing focuses on the quirks and ailments of her foster dogs and foster fails.

A CONVERSATION WITH THE AUTHOR

WHY DID YOU WRITE GRACIE AND THE STINKY GREEN POO? WHAT WERE YOUR INSPIRATIONS?

I think really just to appeal to children and hopefully allow them to see how an animal that may look frail and is elderly can still have a happy future if given a second chance. Gracie was my inspiration.

WHAT ARE YOUR PLANS FOR YOUR FUTURE BOOKS?

To create books with similar ideas as Gracie and the Stinky Green Poo but to focus on the quirks of each dog.

WHAT HAS YOUR JOURNEY WITH WRITING BEEN LIKE?

I usually write only when I get spare time amongst my day, but I gain a lot of inspiration from my everyday life. I'm always inspired by true life. For me, literary success means simply having a published book for myself. Having the physical book based around the stories that I tell of the dogs in my life is what I enjoy the most about this process. I only realised I wanted to write about five years ago, but I have enjoyed it ever since and have plans for much more going forward.
