AWARD NOMINATIONS

KENNY IS A RARE HUMAN BEING, SUPER INTELLIGENT AND PHYSICALLY GIFTED...

Where it is earned, his loyalty is total. His journey is bleak and often painful to experience alone. His purpose is unclear and his devotion to others obvious. Kenny is a man of modest desire and strong convictions, and both serve him in greatness and in bleakness...

Through a tale of humanness, Kenny finds his story and walks the path he has been given, and when confronted with choices, he makes those he feels best, and often find them to be wrong, but with good reasons...

Kenny loves, fears, desires, aspires and delivers all in the simple process of taking one breath after another...one day after another...

He finds comfort in friends and as the fates bring them skimming stones on a clear lake, they toss them to skip across the glass water, skimming till they run out of energy and sink.

Each ghost disappears from within when a stone sinks.

A metaphor for all effort - wasted in the end...

"A dark and disturbing tale of life and death in the purest forms; a philosophical journey that one comes out of with greater thought and stronger knowing... A masterful prose..." Francis, Indie Book reviewer

AUTHOR BIO

It was always going to happen but it took a while for John Camillo to take up the craft seriously. Free at last to test himself in the crucible of moulded inspiration, his first work was a collection of poems, 'Tangled Twine', followed by his first novel, 'Bullseye', then an adaptation of Coleridge's 'Rime of the Ancient Mariner'. His learning curve is steep, benefits obvious in improved editing skills and story crafting. He is driven by the idea the more he writes, the sharper his skills become.

A CONVERSATION WITH THE AUTHOR

WHAT LITERARY PILGRIMAGES HAVE YOU GONE ON?

The desire to write percolated until I had time. The first collection was one of poems about observations, experiences and responses to places and memories. I called it 'Tangled Twine' because I believe a writer needs to have the patience of a fisherman faced with a ball of tangled fishing line that he wants to untangle. The flash of inspiration is a common phenomenon for most people, but it takes patience and persistence to turn an inspiration into a work of art.

DOES A BIG EGO HELP OR HURT WRITERS?

We tend to be suckers for the idea of fame and seeking it is a dangerous thing to do because art is about clarifying worthwhile ideas within a form of expression that works for the observer not about shining a light on oneself. The trick is to get the 'I' out of ego.

WHAT DREW YOU TO THE SUBJECT MATTER OF 'KENNY'?

I had a feeling of outrage at things that are wrong, this drew me to the book.
