

THE BUM SNEEZE

Written by Linda Be

Illustrated by Kim Griffin

Sometimes when you overeat,
your tummy comes undone
and getting past the pain is often not much fun.

Discover how this venture goes
for one sneaky man,
who overeats on many pears
and finds that he is not a fan.

"It is a good thing this book is not a scratch and smell edition!"

Fun and humour for all ages to have a giggle at...

Well done and can recommend without any stench!"

Colleen, IndieBook reviewer

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Belinda has spent over fifteen years in education and currently teaches six- to seven-year-old children in a country town called Wingham on the Midcoast of NSW.

She resides with her husband in a beachside suburb on the Midcoast and is a parent to one passionate, independent and joyful young lady called Codi.

Belinda has travelled overseas extensively and enjoyed teaching in Canada for a year in 2011.

Her inspiration comes from the encounters she has with the children in her class.

A CONVERSATION WITH THE AUTHOR

WHY DID YOU WRITE 'THE BUM SNEEZE'? WHAT WERE YOUR INSPIRATIONS?

I was inspired by my current year 1 class. The children seem obsessed with words like fart and poo. They find anything in relation to it hilarious and often will interrupt the learning if they hear something that rhymes with those words or in fact someone in the class has farted. It drove me a little crazy the first term then instead of trying to get them to move away from it I worked with it to move on and lead us into other discussions.

IF YOU HAD TO DO SOMETHING DIFFERENTLY AS A CHILD OR TEENAGER TO BECOME A WRITER AS AN ADULT, WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

I would begin earlier, jot notes of thoughts and ideas, sit on the beach and toy with the notes and ideas, share them with close friends and be involved with a community of writers, authors and illustrators.
